

Tact is the rare ability to keep silent while two friends are arguing, and you know both of them are wrong. --Hugh Allen

The weaker the argument, the stronger the words. --American Proverb

Little Johnny was overheard praying: "Lord, if you can't make me a better boy don't worry about it too much. I'm having a real good time like I am."

Nothing is more annoying than to have someone repeat word for word what you shouldn't have said in the first place.

Consider the postage stamp. Its usefulness consists in the ability to stick to one thing till it gets there.

Three Wonders of Heaven

When I get to heaven, I shall see three wonders there. The first wonder will be to see many there whom I did not expect to see; the second wonder will be to miss many people who I did expect to see; and the third and greatest of all will be to find myself there.

--John Newton

Because time is such a precious commodity in our fast paced culture, it is also a tremendously valuable gift we can give someone else. Jesus was the ultimate model of balanced time management. He demonstrated His love for mankind by being available.

Did you ever notice that there are no biblical accounts of our Lord hurrying? You will never come across a verse saying that He "ran to Bethany" or "rushed back to Galilee." Wherever the Savior went, He was sensitive to the needs of the people around Him and reached out in love to help. He wasn't so busy that He could not be interrupted.

Right before He went to the cross to accomplish the most important work of His life, Jesus stopped to help a poor blind beggar, who was a nobody in the eyes of society. Although the redemption of mankind was vitally important, the Lord cared enough about the suffering of one lowly individual to stop and do what He could to relieve the man's suffering.

If the Lord allowed Himself to be interrupted on the way to the cross, will He not also stop and listen when you call out to Him in your distress? He is never too busy governing the universe to hear His beloved child's cry for help.

Likewise, if we're to follow in Christ's footsteps, we have to ask ourselves, "Am I willing to be interrupted?" We're stewards of all God gives us, including our time. Consider this precious commodity a resource to be used when reaching out to others. Take time for someone today.

"Your life is now hidden with Christ in God." Colossians 3:3(NIV)

The Chinese language has a great symbol for this truth. The word for righteousness is a combination of two pictures. On the top is a lamb. Beneath the lamb is a person. The lamb covers the person. Isn't that the essence of righteousness? The Lamb of Christ over the child of God? Whenever the Father looks down on you He sees the blood of Jesus Christ covering you. --Max Lucado

Follow Jesus

Many times in my life I have been in a strange town and did not know how to get to my destination. When I stopped for directions people would often say something like, "Go two blocks, turn left at the stop sign then go until you come to the fourth traffic light and turn right. You can't miss it." But I often did miss it.

However, once when I asked directions the man did not give me a list of directions but got in his car and said, "Follow me, I'll take you right to it." In a sense that man became the way to my destination. In the same manner, Jesus is our way to heaven. We do not get to heaven by following a list of directions but by following Jesus Christ. --Bill Gordon The Timothy Report
